

Eye bag surgery – Peter’s Story

“Looking at old pictures of myself now, the difference is really striking!”

Peter Watson, 60 from Manchester

I was looking over some holiday pictures and noticed that my eyelids were starting to droop. This was starting to hinder my sight and I was finding it difficult to look upwards.

I didn’t really give it much more thought until one day when I started flicking through some magazines and came across an article about someone who’d had his eye bags removed. I was really impressed with the results in the before and after pictures. This prompted me to do some research.

I decided to go to Transform to have my lower and upper eyes treated. I had the operation in December ‘05 and I’m really happy with the results. Looking at old pictures of myself now, the difference is really striking. Friends and family who didn’t know about the operation commented on how fresh faced and well I looked - and my eyesight is much better.
